SANTA FE, N. M., July 20. The New Mexico State Defence Council's fight to exclude Hearst newspapers from this state is receiving wide support among the New Mexico papers. Every week sees additional newspapers line up against Hearst.

"The Magdalena News," published this statement::

"The News' received this week a check covering a copy of an advertisement for the Hearst publications and the same was returned. The Hearst publications have been declared progerman by the Council of Defence of America, and, if after an impartial investigation, they can make that charge, The News' wants none of their advertising, no matter what the price paid. We need the money, but there is not money enough in this old universe to get German propaganda in our columns."

Jury Is Divided

The split among the jurors, it was learned, was an absolutely even one—six standing for acquittal and six for conviction. Such was the alignment when they first retired, and such it remained till the final ballot. How great was the strain to which the twelve men were subjected was evidenced when, shortly after their arrival at the Federal Building yesterday morning, one of them, Jacob Radlich, collapsed in the midst of the session. A doctor was sent for, and Mr. Radlich was revived sufficiently to go on with his part in the deliberations.

Judge Hand, in dismissing the jury, Jury Is Divided

Judge Hand, in dismissing the jury, repeated his disappointment at the failure to find a verdict, but thanked them for the conspicuous conscientiousness with which they have followed the extremely involved proceedings.

The discovery of the latest plot was made by Major Sylvester when he was consulted recently regarding a mysterious and destructive fire in a large manufacturing plant. On questioning workmen who attempted to check the flames he learned that the use of the extinguisher fluid caused the flames to spread alarmingly.

The major examined the extinguishers and found what was unmistakably the dregs of pure gasolene. Evidence showing that the appliances had been tampered with was plentiful. The discovery led Major Sylvester to order the thorough examination of every extinguisher in the du Pont pisnt, the result of which has not as yet been announced. He also decided to spread a warning throughout the country

Evidence of an alleged nation-wide incendiary plot, believed to be the work of German agents, was disclosed yesterday by Major Richard Sylvester, honorary president of the International Police Association and head of the protection department of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, powder manufacturers. At the same time he warned the public to exercise the greatest precaution in order to defeat the plan of the plotters.

The scheme, as uncovered by Major Sylvester, consisted of mixing pure gasolene with the fluid contained in fire extinguishers. The result was to add fuel to flames, instead of putting them out when discovered.

The supposed plot, because of careless precautionary measures, might easily render the smallest of blazes the "We have little reason to fear that the scheme in the scope of possibility, had not been evidenced in any fire in this city to death."
